

Brockway Biggs Biography

Fredericton-native Brockway Biggs, formerly Pimp Tea, is an Ottawa-based rapper & music enthusiast who won over diverse crowds from the late 90s until a concussion in 2011.

As an artist, Biggs won an East Coast Music Award (ECMA) in 2005, while receiving 4 ECMA, 2 CUMA and 1 OIMA nominations over the years. He's performed or been featured on dozens of TV & radio stations, newspapers & magazines. His resume includes over a hundred shows, a 2008 cross-Canada tour and dozens of festival performances.

As a writer, he spent 4 years writing for HipHopCanada.com (2001-2005) with features, interviews and reviews of some of Canada's finest.

His publicity company, Brockway Entertainment, ran campaigns for dozens of artists including Classified, Eternia, Skratch Bastid, JRDN, Jorun, Wordburglar & D.O. Gibson.

In 2023, Biggs began releasing family-friendly music under a new alias: Mr Super Dude. This is the next step in his continuing recovery from his 2011 concussion.

Biggs imparts an infectious energy at every show, leaving his music described as a "breath of fresh air." His entertaining stage presence is cultivated from the vintage vibe of storytelling, crowd participation, props and dance moves.

Biggs has been featured or performed on most major TV networks including MusiquePlus, MuchMusic, Global TV, City TV, CBC & CTV. He's charted on 40+ radio stations and is approaching 100K views on YouTube. He's collaborated with Gordie Johnson, Nelly's label, Classified, Skratch Bastid, D.O., J-Bru & more.

Biggs has played shows in dozens of cities, including 6 tours. In 2008, he spent 100 days touring Canada from coast-to-coast in support of his 3rd album 'In Awe of Simplicity.' He's showcased at NXNE, CMW, Indie Week, ECMA, Under Pressure, MNB, Canada Winter Games, Canada Day, etc. He's shared the stage with the likes of Classified, Shad, Skratch Bastid, GhettoSocks, Quake Matthews, Manafest & The Motorleague.

Prior to his concussion, he was well-established within the Canadian indie hip-hop scene. His marketing & promotions company, Brockway Entertainment, ran campaigns for dozens of artists including Juno nominees. He contributed to juries for the Junos, ECMAs, MNB, FACTOR and others. Inspired by stories of the giving nature of his late Great Uncle Don Messer, he gave back to the community by releasing annual chart-topping Canadian Rap Future Superstars compilations from 2005-2011.

Biggs' grew up on a dead-end road in Charters Settlement, New Brunswick, not far from the province's capital of Fredericton. At age ten, he expressed his creative knack by winning Ganong's 'Why I Love the Chocolate Mousse' poetry contest. In high school, Biggs began mixing warm-up tapes for his basketball teams. In 1996, Biggs recorded his first rap song as a bonus project for his chemistry class.

This love of hip-hop soon spilled over into writing. In 1997, he joined his university's paper, The Brunswickan, as a hip-hop staff writer. In 2001, he joined the HipHopCanada.com movement, and enjoyed four CUMA-award winning years as one of the site's senior writer.

He released his first music video in 2000. His debut album, 'Power Is Mindful Peace' was released in 2002 and marked the true beginning of his rap career.
